

Mašta collective has started the Microevolutions - a practical guide to creative activism to share, connect and ignite creative acts between social workers and artists, educators and activists, curious citizens and policy makers. Microevolutions is a collection of opinions, motivations, techniques and experiences, aspiring to act as a trigger to move from thinking to doing as well as a place where to find concrete experiences and methods to facilitate groups to think about their realities and encourage an activate attitude to life through creativity.
